COSTS HAVE RISEN

Tomato growers from all over New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania will meet Friday concerning a processor's price offering of $3 a ton under last year, it was announced by Lester C. Jones of Medford, N. J., president of the N. J. Pa. Cooperative Tomato Growers Association. More than 800 growers are expected to attend the meeting at the Community House in Moorestown, at 8 p. m.

Jones has labelled the prices offered by the canner as "unreasonable, unjustifixble and unacceptable." He cites the increases over last year, in the costs of raising tomatoes, for fertilizer, labor, machinery, insecticides, etc. Because Radio Broadcast Includer ing through a sharing of opinions Claim Harry J. Depicted in A Film

PENNDEL, March 11 - The Bucks County Lincoln Highway Kiwants Club witnessed a very interesting film on the manufacture of rubber at its dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the Royal Gardens, Bensalem township. J. L. Cumming. Bensalem Township School territorial manager of the Firestone Rubber Company, explained briefv the background of the picture which was entitled: "History and Growth of Liberia".

According to Mr. Cumming, Firestone purchased acres of land in Liberia for the development of the rubber industry. Liberia has advanced and progressed very rapidly with the growth of rubber industry. Modern airfields, schools, research laboratories, and hospitals have sprung up in great numbers. The film depicted many interesting items, such as "grafting" of the rubber trees, and "tapping". After five or six years the rubber tree is ready to be "tapped"; the tree is tapped on an average of 180 times a year. "Single Package"

Biggest exporter of American products to be given to foreign peoples during December was the U. S. Army. The Army's "Civilian Supply Frogram" sent abroad no less than $68,730,000 worth of American goods in that month. The bulk went to Germany and Japan - about $26,000,000 each. The rest was scattered over a number of other "occupied" zones. The principal commodity appears to have been wheat and flour (listed as "vegetable foods"); but included was a variety of other goods all more or less scarce on our home front. But the Army is not content with only one relief program. It has at least two others. For example, there is the so-called "SIM"-the "Surplus Incentive Material" program. Clothing which is termed surplus or excess is collected from Army depots or from other Government agencies and sent abroad to be used "as an incentive to stimulate increased production.' The program has had little publicity; and the yardsticks which determine what is or is not "surplus or excess," as well as the manner in which the clothing is distributed "to stimulate increased production" are not at all clear. Nevertheless, shipments during December in this program reached the respectable total of $377.750.

Again, the Army has been operating vessels to carry supplies for the International Refugee Organization, as well as participating in other ways. During December this program took abroad $146.469 worth of canned beef and $2,853 in milk all destined for Germany.

There is an entirely different way in which the Army extends foreign relief, which the Census Burcau mentions but declares itself unable to tabulate. That is by the distribution of war-surplus goods held abroad; or by sending commodities to Army outposts for use by American soldiers, but declaring these surplus or excess after they are shipped, and distributing them as it wishes.

The "stop-gap" version of the Marshall Plan went into effect during December. A preliminary estimate of shipments under this program, which is subject to considerable raising later, is that $20,000,000 was shipped, mainly coal and grain for France.

Greek-Turkish aid also went ahead during December. The U. S. Government itself shipped $6,870,000 in food and machinery, principally to Greece. It also financed large but unlisted shipments through private channels as part of this program. Not everyone knows that Uncle Sam has another and entirely different set-up, called the U. S. Foreign Relief Program, which is different from any of the above, and from the Marshall Plan, Under this agency. it is clear why there is no great $33,949,000 in American products went abroad during Decomber again. most of it articles scarce in this country. Italy received more than half, in wheat, flour, dried beans and coal. Austria got wheat, peanuts and rolled oats. Greece got wheat and evaporated milk. China got wheat and

Just to complicate an already almost hopelessly tangled situation, there are other borderline relief programs which hardly anyone ever heard of, and which are described most vaguely in the Census Bureau tion no longer makes sense. There is now no doubt that this nation ulation." No wonder cotton goods is so high on the American counters. But there are complications of another sort. Most everyone thinks war regardless of the amount of that war-time Lend-Lease and post-war UNRRA died months or years ago. That's just what people think. "Old bureaus never die"—and both are going merrily ahead at this late date. Lend-Lease shipped out nearly a million dollars worth of American goods during December—$925,600, to be exact. Two-thirds went to France (to help fight the war, of course!) and a sizeable clrunk to Brazil.

And among the other recipients, as our "ally" to fight Germany and Japan. was none other than Russia! UNRRA also is still in business. Its principal shipments in December went to China and Poland, and consisted of $1.074.000 in steam boilers.

diesel engines, industrial machinery, and drugs. The inefficiency of such a scatter-gun relief "program" by the United States Government is too conspicuous to need comment. Nor is it hard to see how much greater impact on domestic prices is involved by competitive, unsystematic buying by such a variety of agencies than

From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania and The Bucks County Medical Society

Stuttering and stammering are not speech defects.

Almost every stutterer can talk normally at certain times.

Stuttering is a nervous condition, the disorganized speech being a symptom of an underlying nervous maladjustment.

It is a cry for help, indicating that the stutterer has met or is meeting some environmental situation with which he cannot satisfactorily battle.

Some children are born with nervous systems quite likely to become upset under stress.

In many of these cases, the upset

If these headlines meant YOU ---

You see them in the paper almost every day. "Held for damages..." "Man sued for accident..." They mean that some one is going to pay the bills—bills that sometimes run into thousands of dollars. And in these days of crowded highways and streets it may just as well be you who is held responsible.

Don't take a chance. A policy with us protects you against this risk. We assume all lawyers' fees, court charges and damages if you are held responsible. The cost is really very little and more than paid for in your peace of mind. Talk to us and
